

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Jayne E. Jaskolski, PhD, CCC-SLP is a language and literacy consultant and adjunct professor at Rush University, Chicago, Illinois. Dr. Jaskolski conducts professional development training for educators across the Midwest. She teaches courses in speech sound disorders, child language, literacy, and multicultural issues. With more than 25 years of clinical experience, her areas of interest include phonological awareness, early childhood education, language and literacy, teacher professional development, and the scholarship of teaching.

Maura Jones Moyle, PhD, CCC-SLP is an associate professor in the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology at Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Dr. Moyle specializes in language and literacy development and disorders and multicultural issues. She is especially interested in increasing the quality of education and academic outcomes for preschool children from urban, low-income communities. Dr. Moyle was principal investigator and codirector of the Wisconsin Reading Acquisition Program (WRAP), an Early Reading First project funded by the U.S. Department of Education.